Dear Sister,

I am a registered general nurse, trained here in Tauranga. I wish to do a midwifery course with a view to helping ladies deliver their babies in the home, once I'm qualified. Apparently the only course available in Nz at present is a technical training in Wellington. Could you verify this for me? - I would rather not train in such a setting + have considered training in America. Could you supply me with some information? i.e. some addresses in America where the courses incorporate a more natural method of childbirth. I wish to be legally qualified to do my work here in Tauranga and also have some experience of home deliveries.

Hopefully you can be of some help. I am eagerly awaiting a reply.

sincerely yours
Cathy
