

Access has given TVNZ a marvelous 25th birthday present: Andrew Samuel. Yes. We sadly bid adieu to our Promotions Manager. Andrew had the unenviable task of promoting the station with a shoestring budget at his disposal. He delivered champagne on a beer budget. Best of luck Andrew. Access' loss is TVNZ's gain ...

Last month we announced Clare Nolan's resignation from Access after 6 months maternity leave. Now we proudly announce our New Arrival. It's a girl! (whoops). All smiles and weighing ... Robin Nathan, who had stepped in during Clare's maternity leave, now continues the good work on a more permanent footing.

1985 is International Youth Year. Access supports this project and would like to achieve a better spread of ages on the station. We already do better than most but onwards and upwards... If you host a regular show on Access, then think about incorporating young people and "young issues" into your programme. The themes of IYY are: Participation, Development and Peace. For further details, contact Eugene at Access.

The short and violent life of Isaac M'bata is chronicled in "Whirlwinds", a series of short stories currently running on Saturday afternoons. Isaac is a fictionalised character but the bloody political events which overwhelm his life are as real now as they were in 1976 when author Warwick Johnson was working as a teacher in Soweto. The five part series continues at 1.30 on June 15, 22 and 29.

ISSUE NUMBER 35
JUNE/JULY 1985

We're still reeling from the proposals contained in the Board's Four-Year Plan. Nothing has been finalised but it's on the cards that:

- * Access will lose the powerful 2YB transmitter and pick up 2ZM's when that station goes FM.
- * Access will have to start generating dollars, either through sponsorship or user-pays.
- * The station may be pushed out of Radio New Zealand and have to set up shop on an independent footing, with fraternal assistance from RNZ.

MEETING TO DISCUSS FUTURE OF ACCESS

NGA MIHI KI A NGAHIWI ME "AOTEAROA"
Ngahiwi Apanui, the presenter of our weekly Maori programme "Te Puawaitanga o te Reo" has made it to vinyl. He's a member of the band "Aotearoa" which has released a single. It was no. 25 in record sales in Wellington at the end of May and was described by Jayrem Records - who released it - as "... an important New Zealand Record that should be played on every radio station in New Zealand."

Not suprisingly, Access was the first station in New Zealand to play it. Just as we were the first to play "Poi E", Circus Block Four, Hot Cafe and a host of homegrown music. The disappointing part of it is that "Maranga Ake Ai" (Wake Up!) looks set to meet the same fate as other local, progressive and/or polynesian music: little or no airplay.

Ngahiwi knows that it'll take a lot of struggle before things change.

"One local station said that "Poi E" was unprogrammable because it was in a foreign language. That's a fallacy. For a kick-off Maori is NOT a foreign language. Anyway, the same station turned around and played the German song "99 Luft Ballons"... It'd be nice to make no. 1 on the charts but success for us would be people hearing our songs, the content of our songs."

TE PUAWAITANGA O TE REO: Fridays 6-7pm

John Stears
Mikhail Gorbachev

The NZ-USSR programme is now a weekly feature on Access. In the half hour show, you can look forward to soviet jazz; stories, both classic and soviet; a series on Russian cities, we well as interviews with visiting Russian personalities and kiwis home from the USSR.

The show's presenter, John Stears, sees the programme as one way of letting people have access to views and information they wouldn't get through the mainstream media.

"A lot of people are afraid of the Soviet Union. I think they're afraid because they only get one side of the story... it's basically a question of what they don't know, they fear. So Access offers an alternative source of information. That's important."

COMPUTER CONTEST

"Write a computer program with an educational theme." That was the challenge put out to Access "Computer Programs" listeners.

The response was an impressive selection of programs from various parts of the country. The competition was run in association with Wellington's five computer clubs: Commodore 64 and Vic 20; Spectravideo; B.B.C./Electron; Spectrum and Atari. Here's the results:

SPECTRAVIDEO: 1st place: Dean Whitmore, New Plymouth. His entry combined a game with information on the solar system. Prize: 1 top program ($138) provided by Microstyle Computers (Petone).

2nd place: I. Scott, Masterton with a program on chemical symbols. Prize: $50 from "Einstein" (Wellington)

BBC/ELECTRON: 1st place: Julian Wright for "Typer" (keyboard skills). Prize: 2 top quality games from Acorn Soft.

2nd place: T.M. Spiers, Levin. Submitted a program on junior mathematics. Prize: 1 top quality game from Acorn Soft.

"Computer Programs" broadcasts to one of the five brands every week (cf Programme summary). These are recorded onto cassette by the listener, who then loads the programs into his/her computer.

There's a constant demand for programs. If you are a computer buff: write a program and send it in to: "Computer Programs" Access Radio, P O Box 2396, Wellington. Your cassette will be returned with a quality program on the same tape.

"COMPUTER PROGRAMS": Saturdays 9am on 783 kHz.
